

ABSTRACT

[0026] Embodiments of the present invention provide a method, apparatus and system for absorbing heat from an active side of a die by a plurality of cold conductive elements embedded in said die, and releasing said absorbed heat by a plurality of hot conductive elements embedded in a substrate connected to said die.